

Summer 2007

“The eternal law of sowing and reaping is such that, we reap after we sow, we reap what we sow, and we reap more than we sow”

Dear Friends:

Whatever we sow into other peoples lives, comes back into our lives...pressed down, shaken together and running over. It is a joy, to send you this update, to share with you how your investment (seeds) in World Harvest Mission efforts is saving lives and changing destinies.

Child Sponsorship Program

For those who are involved in the child sponsorship program, please find enclosed a photo, and a personal letter from your sponsored child. We encourage sponsors to write back to your child and build a closer relationship which can mean so much to both of you. Many of the sponsors and children have reported that this unique opportunity and the bond that is established lasts a lifetime.

Water Well Projects

For donors supporting other WHM projects, we have enclosed a picture of one of the many water wells that your donations have enabled us to construct. WHM has continued to work hard at providing clean drinking water. We are currently drilling our ninth water well in Iganga. Eighty percent of all illnesses in Uganda can be traced back to unclean water. Education and clean water are key to a healthy, sustainable life. Each new well costs $3,000.

Mission Trips

Mission trips leave you with more than just an appreciation for running water and fast food restaurants. You build lasting memories and carry those experiences with you , the rest of your life. Jonathan Gunderson, a long time WHM partner will be leading a mission's team to Uganda early September of this year. Mission trip activities will include: visiting WHM projects, schools, orphanages and preaching in Churches. For details, send an email to: info@worldharvestmission.org. In July this year, Jonathan will also be participating in the BadWater Marathon. Proceeds will go to support WHM efforts in Uganda. To learn more about Jonathan's efforts or the Badwater race, go to Jonathan's website at: www.seegundryrun.com

Build Lasting Memories

Because of you our partners, a lot has been accomplished: several villages now have clean drinking water, and many children are able to attend school. The seeds you sow give us tremendous encouragement and help bring about positive changes in the lives of many, changes that will last a lifetime. Thank you for your continued financial support.

Sincerely,

William Kasirye, Director
World Harvest Mission
www.worldharvestmission.org